pumped into the radiator cap because the fuel tank is in the front. "The car gets a lot of attention. At a gas station when you are pumping gas into the front of the car, people look at you kind of funny."

The car won't be driven from November to May. It will be stored in a neighbor's garage up on blocks and the battery will be removed. The license plate on front of the car says "Roy's Toy" and there have been many admirers who say they would like to own Roy's toy. "But no one has come up with the money!" Schroeder says. "When they put some money where their mouths are, I might sell it. But I think my son would be real hurt if we sold it."

Deborah Miela finishes bike-a-thon, donates pledge money to March of Dimes

A healthy dose of pedal power and stamina, some pledge money and a lot of leg muscle helped Deborah Miela, attorney, finish 11th out of 187 riders in the recent March of Dimes bike-a-thon held on Belle Isle. She was also the second woman to finish.

"I averaged about 12.7 miles per hour and finished the race in three hours and 40 minutes," Miela says. The ride was 75 kilometers or 46 miles on a designated course around the island. However, the course is not new to Miela who rode in and finished the Detroit News Wolverine 200 Mile Bicycle Marathon, a 24 hour endurance test.

A devoted bicyclist, Miela rides a stationary bike in her home every other night for half an hour, while she reads or watches television. She also averages 30-40 miles riding her bicycle outside on weekends.

The pledges taken from the legal department helped Miela to raise over $100 for the March of Dimes.
